ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

DecARcerate is a nonprofit working to affirm human dignity by confronting unjust systems. As the only state-wide organization in Arkansas dedicated to ending mass incarceration, we help foster a political imagination that envisions a state where systems of punishment and oppression are replaced with systems that are just, equitable, and healing.

The Fourth Annual DecARcerate Conference will be a day-long event that brings together scholars, activists, and those personally affected by the prison industrial complex to share information and personal stories.

In the spirit of TED Talks, eight presenters will share twenty-minute presentations on a wide variety of themes pertaining to Arkansas' criminal punishment system. Throughout the day there will be two thirty-minute Question and Answer sessions, each with four speakers from throughout the day. This will give conference attendees an opportunity to pose questions to speakers they have heard thus far.
